TRADING THE DEAD

A Report on Funding Sources of the "State of Hawaii, Inc."

a belligerent occupier,

The repercussions of the evolution in the standing of the Hague Regulations in the sphere of belligerent occupation are of tremendous import. Once the Regulations have acquired their declaratory nature, their provisions – as a mirror image of customary law – have become binding on all States, whether or not they are Contracting Parties to the Hague Conventions of 1899/1907.²²

TRADING THE DEAD

A Report on Funding Sources of the "State of Hawaii, Inc." a civilian arm of the U.S. Department of Defense.

The beginning of the story,

There are the Maori, Maori, Maohi and Maoli people indigenous to Polynesia, all sharing similar identities inherited from a common ancestor, I. The identities all mean "by way of I", or "the multitude of I" and the "descendants of I the Creator. Throughout Polynesia, humankind is referred to as kanaka,(Hawaii), tanaka, taranga, kalana, and akana. The Maoli (Hawaii) moolelo (ancestral oral histories) given to each generation to pass on, conveys through chant the creation of the universe, the rising and fall of continents, prophesies and decades of world travel. Up through time, changes began to take place upon the marinescape of the largest ocean in the world, long before Captain Cook stumbled across inhabited islands in the Pacific in 1778.

On June 7, 1839 the Maoli nation changed. The Constitutional Monarch King Kamehameha III of ko Hawaii Pae Aina (original name of the nation) divested the sovereign archipelagic domain of his former absolute rule, to the kanaka providing the base for the Mahele (patenting system). Each kanaka descendant of original inhabitants and discoverers of the 133 or more islands that make up ko Hawaii pae aina, suddenly became vested with an interest to a 33.1/3 % of each ahupuaa forever. The Mahele (meaning to share), is the only known royal patenting system in creation without "public" lands, opting instead to vest open lands in the name of its indigenous people whose bundle of rights and knowledge provided the base of its cultural existence. All patented kuleana (meaning rights, jurisdiction and responsibility) thereafter, became subject to this law and carried forth with it, a perpetual inheritance for all kanaka. The law is "koe nae na kuleana o na kanaka" meaning, " all of the rights, jurisdiction and responsibilities thereto, are heretofore reserved to them". And it is only for the ones identified in the law, the "kanaka".

Well before other nations began implementing the sovereignty of indigenous peoples, the Mahele land, resource and water patenting system of 1839 secured the indigenous rights of the kanaka, their indigenous environment and original kanawai(laws). What became the Constitutional sovereign nation under royal patents and Treaty was a deeply rooted construct delicately weaving itself around ancient principle and home rule traditions. The ancestral foundations of the kanaka were brought forward into the Constitutional make up through the Mahele and provided acknowledgment and self recognition for all of its Patentees with Treaty status, which again served to acknowledge this built in core of rights.

In order to cement the mahele shares into place and to assure the alii (leaders of royal descent) and konohiki (scientific resource culturalists) in their duties to culture and environment, all palapala sila nui (allodial royal patents) issued to the alii included the patented 33.1/3 percentile to kanaka according to the first vestment of private property rights governed by kanawai.

Each half of an ahupuaa (land portions that are from mountain into sea) issued by patent to an alii was normally “shared” with a konohiki, the crown or the aupuni (de jure government). For example, Kapu (a konohiki) received Puunau ahupuaa in Lahaina, Maui and the other half called Puunauiki, belonged to King Kauikeaouli who later relinquished the use of it to the aupuni (de jure government). This cultural and legal aspect of the Mahele relationship proved to be essential to the functions of the land and adjoining sea. The aupuni did not receive royal patents and thereby could not control the water or resources belonging to the patentees. All Alii and Konohiki Patentees at present retain patented mineral and metallic rights which are included with the patented kuleana recognized by numerous Treaties and laws. There are five pre constitutional treaties between ko Hawaii pae aina and other nations, Russia, United States, Great Britain, Argentina and China, each respected the indigenous people and their rights. The aupuni uses of the alii royal patents were restricted in fee (less than freehold) when issuing royal patents to the kanaka and non kanaka who purchased them, insuring all of its transactions were subjected to the “koe nae na kuleana o na kanaka” – the law that reserves original property rights to the people of origin held in every alii royal patent that blanketed vast shares of the archipelago.

National Economics by Home Rule

Economically, the Mahele offered a healthy revenue return from farming and fishing cooperatives labored on by alii, konohiki and kanaka alike. There are cooperatives such as poalima, koele (agricultural cultivation) and ko'a (marine cultivation) and loko (aquatic cultivation of plant, bird and marine life) and the pa holoholona (animal pens), there were also cultivated places for spiritual and medicinal purposes connected to the patentees. School lands were patented and retained patently for that use only, royal patents for colleges were issued to the kanaka Board of Education. Each kanaka share of the aupuni and crown cooperatives were reinvested in education, government and healthcare. All alii reserved a 33 1/3% for kanaka development and growth, reserved also by the aupuni and office of Crown. A parliament under constitutional sovereign democratic rule with representatives was established by Oct. 8, 1840 and patenting land, water and resources took place via a de jure judicial system. Total comprehension of manaleo (original language) and depth of the traditions and culture of ko Hawaii pae aina was critically important to interpreting the Mahele aina.

According to the patenting system, the crown and aupuni gave 50% revenues back to its people, whereas the konohiki assured the balance of use and proper cultivation was in order in the ahupuaa. By the kanawai (the law of the land), a patentee's(s) estate would descend to his or her heirs as stated on the royal patent, and the family could petition the de jure court to probate the will of the deceased patentee or not, for delivery of the estate. Otherwise, the royal patented or court entitled estate descended quietly without break to the heirs by automatic descent of title. The royal patent is considered prima facie evidence of the identity of who inherits the royal patented estate, "a kona mau hooilina" (and all of his or her descendants) is written on every royal patent. Substantially producing an irrevocable estate in freehold, the opposite of the "western serf system" of ye olde English commonwealth.

Many foreign scholars have attempted to make a connection between the Mahele and the serfdom land system used in other countries. First, serfs were not granted their own private allodial or fee lands under royal patents or court orders and secondly, the aristocratic system in those countries did not legislatively care for the perpetual trusts of their indigenous peoples and their cultural identity. The trust of a royal patent is inalienable, and it protects the core of its creation, the kanaka.

Today, a kanaka may be asked by someone to explain a royal patent and it is likely that he or she will not know how to. The heavy cultural debasement and social engineering asserted over kanaka by the foreign U.S. has nearly all but erased this knowledge from their population.

There are legal examples of the careful care and lawful administration taken in inheritance proceedings in the history of such cases, however access to them today are nearly impossible for kanaka due to denial of legal access and expensive licensed searches by state agency employees.

Based upon the constitutional laws of ko Hawaii pae aina, the kanawai gave procedural requirements for selling properties belonging to heirs during open probate proceedings, as discussed in E.K. Lipoa by her guardian J.D. Robinson v. J.I. Dowsett, et als., 3 Haw. 625, 626-27 (1875). That case recognized the requirement of obtaining authorization to transfer real property or interests held in an estate and the necessity of a subsequent deed conveying the property being signed by the administrator of the estate. In Burick v. Disher, 1 Haw. 114, 115 (1852), the court affirmed statutes of the nation by upholding an 1822 law by King Kaulikeaouli, in that all leases, deeds, etc., shall be recorded: and that no conveyance of real estate not recorded within thirty days after its execution, shall be valid as against a subsequent deed of the same estate, previously recorded."

There are examples of arguments on legitimacy of the heirs, especially in cases regarding the royal family heirs. The Constitutional Laws of 1842, Chapter X, give illegitimate children the same inheritance rights as legitimate children, based upon the 1830 sovereign edict of Queen Kaahumanu. Even though illegitimate children were protected by statute law, sometimes parents would marry to legitimate the birth of the child or children because of religious pressure from Christian missionaries.

The kanawai also recognized the governing law at the time of death, which gave illegitimate children the same inheritance rights as legitimate children, some examples of process are Keelikolani v. James Robinson, 2 Haw. 522, 528 (1862), Kale Aihonua v. Ahi, et al., 6 Haw. 410-11 (1883). The ko Hawaii pae aina Civil Code, Chapter XXXII, Section 1447 is very clear that the decedents estate shall be inherited by the heirs. The kanaka believe that hanai (adopted) children shared equally with children of the same parents, and western marriages did not replace the style of plural marriages known to kanaka until after 1860. Section 1448 of the Civil Code of ko Hawaii pae aina required real property of an intestate decedent to “be divided equally among all of the intestate’s children”. Inheritance usually meant sharing, mahele.

Nothing has gone,

In December of 1854, King Kamehameha III passed away, and left his personal estate to his heirs and the most righteously created land and water patenting system in the world, spanning the Empire chain in the Pacific to the North and to the South, all created therefrom.

Luckily for the kanaka, the constitutional King patented the archipelago and solidified the boundaries in International Treaty, dated May 16, 1854. Every Treaty between ko Hawaii pae aina and other nations recognized the royal patented archipelago and its rights by the act of ratifying such Treaty’s. The royal patented assets remain intact in the names of the owners and the heirs. It was this King that created the bridge and development for the kanaka Maoli to enter the twentieth century with security. He and his council set forth a patenting system that wrapped itself around it’s aboriginal people and it’s culture, merging old foundations with a constitutional one identified in at least 46 Treaties worldwide. All Treaty’s contain provisions for settlement of personal and real property of resident aliens and foreigners who deceased within ko Hawaii pae aina territory.

The probate court in ko Hawaii pae aina was called the "Aha hooponopono waiwai" and the kanawai used was an integration of traditional and statute laws, one respecting the other.

Most small probate estates holding royal patent assets are closed, however every large probate estate of Konohiki and Alii which include kanaka vested interests, are open and undistributed without court orders to this day. This means that over 66% of all real estate and equitable interests in "Hawaii" sits on top of probate estate assets located within open bonded probates still within proceedings of the aha hooponopono waiwai. The other percentages are in small estates or have not been "discovered" yet by entering the foreign corporate tax system. Without a court order the decedent's royal patent title, rights and interests to the estate cannot be delivered outside of probate court, or aha hooponopono waiwai and nearly all title guaranteed by the foreign State of Hawaii, Inc. lacks proper delivery by court order.

Unkown by nearly all kanaka Maoli and unprivileged attorneys, the deceased Kings open bonded probate is an equity account utilized illegally by the State of Hawaii, Inc. converted from solid probate assets to equitable interests that provide funding for the foreign corporation called the State of Hawaii, Inc., and their parent corporation, the foreign U.S. Department of Defense. Those entities assume a co-trustee relationship over Hawaii and by that virtue, claim to administer foreign rule to benefit the kanaka as implied conservators. However, absent due process and legitimate ratification of probate proceedings by law, all deeds, transfers and or conveyances are vitiated by fraud.

Liability may be limitless for the illegal occupant's State of Hawaii, Inc. and their parent company, the U.S. Department of Defense whose offices depend solely upon the world not finding out about the true victimization of the Maoli, and how they have been getting away with it for over a century.

Foreign Trade under foreign rules

The assets of the Dead, (Deceased patentees) have been illegally withheld from their heirs for generations in order to be hypothecated, pledged, monetized and securitized through a trading company known as "Cede & Co." listed with the foreign U.S. Depository Trust and Clearing Corporation for generations. Trading the Dead began in the "circuit court" chambers of the foreign private commercial trading company known as the Judiciary of the State of Hawaii, Inc. regulated under DUNS trading number 36-070-5149, codified under SIC number 92119903 and is a subsidiary of the foreign State of Hawaii, Inc., DUNS trading number 07-767-6997, as early as the year 1895. The pass through corporation (see above) sustains the foreign U.S. Department of Defense with monetary assets and credit derived from the source that is the open bonded probate of the deceased Patentee's. Currently, two banks act as personal representatives of the ancestors openly plundered estates. While assets located in open bonded probates are being utilized for war, and crimes against humanity, the owners of those assets are being misled to believe they don't exist. Basically manufacturing an environment of international business complicity in human rights abuses which are ongoing today and carry criminal liability.

The circuit court probate escrow equity accounts earn 10 % legal interests on the value of the estates solid and liquid assets that have never been distributed to the heirs. All alii and konohiki probates holding large allodial estates have been illegally used for trade since 1895 under the falsehood that the State of Hawaii, Inc. is trading it's assets that it owns, possibly creating if not the most morbid, the largest International Security Fraud in the world. Many leading attorney and insurance firms have underwritten the securities and approved them for trade on DTCC knowingly doing so upon void and defective title that has yet to be disclosed to the innocent purchasers or borrowers. The victims of the security fraud scheme orchestrated by the State of Hawaii, Inc. and their foreign parent corporation the U.S. Department of Defense , are the kanaka and whomever unknowingly buys, sells or trades with the State of Hawaii, Inc..

By defrauding the innocent investors and purchasers, the foreign agent State of Hawaii, Inc. violates among numerous Security Exchange Commission laws, NASD RULES, 3120, 2330, 2110, 3040, 2110 and IM-2110-1, SEC RULE 15(c)3-1, 3110, SEC Rule 17(a)-3 and 17(a)-4, NASD RULES OF CONDUCT 2110 and 8210, NASD RULES 2330 and IM 2330 with each asset it illegally claims to back its false white paper, bonds and financial instruments.

At present, the foreign U.S. Department of Defense utilizes 6% Hawaiian Treasury Bonds initially to be held in trust for kanaka issued against the assets illegally withheld in the HPSB (Hawaiian Postal Savings Bank), substituted as the circuit courts. The original system created by ko Hawaii pae aina in 1840 directed the PMG Post Master General to hold 6% Hawaiian Treasury bonds in trust from revenue and assets received in the HPSB for the kanaka in exchange for the aupuni (government) commercial uses of their interests and properties. In gross diversion of law, the State of Hawaii, Inc. has hypothecated the open bonded probates of the Dead as collateral under the substitute system, since 1895 to present.

Each of the foreign Counties under the State of Hawaii, Inc. issue Comprehensive Annual Financial Reports that rate commercial instruments including probate equity accounts, and those instruments are underwritten for monetizing on the world market through Cede & Co., then DTCC in the U.S. and abroad. The assets upon which those values are based, provide the proceeds used for foreign war games, RIMPAC, genetic testing on humans, GMO farming in open fields and among other atrocities, the U.S. takeover of sovereign nations and their resources.

The heir patentee's unlawfully utilized assets provide the foreign U.S. Department of Defense with funding, that in turn provides funding revenue to the State of Hawaii, Inc., OHA, the Office of Hawaiian Affairs, Alu Like, Lokahi Pacific and all "native and Native Hawaiian" programming. In order to qualify for any of these "programs", the kanaka must agree to identity theft by way of accepting a forced change of ancestry and identity by contract, if not – the funds are not doled out to the assumed "beneficiaries" of the foreign U.S. Department of Defense.

An estimated 20% of that revenue received by the State of Hawaii, Inc. is claimed by that foreign corporation to be an "entitlement" for the kanaka, in reality no heir has ever been given an accurate accounting of probate equity accounts or the funding revenue, so they have no way of knowing the truth.

While forcing the kanaka to accept socially engineered economic and civil occupation, the State of Hawaii, Inc. metes out controlled apathy devices such as "Hawaiian Homelands" or prestigious titles in cultural advisory positions.

Why a little nation in the Pacific?

Besides being denied access to their own records under foreign U.S. military forced control between the years of 1893 and 1967, all kanaka have faced racial economics, depletion of food sources and internal displacement by each succeeding illegal administrative corporation held in place by the foreign U.S. Congress, which oversees the foreign private corporation known as the U.S. Department of Defense. Keeping the natives busy with the induced social malaise gave the foreign U.S. ample opportunity to carve out an addition deletion banking system utilizing a central-pacific financial structure already in place, and more importantly it contained gold and silver which the U.S. did not have. The hard assets under it's forced administrative control, gave the foreign U.S. a surety and collateral it did not previously have. The HPSB was legitimately established by Treaty on Dec. 13, 1886 between ko Hawaii pae aina with Hong Kong, serving three quarters of the world's commercial and trade economy while centered in the Pacific. Money orders and currency exchanges were processed between San Francisco, ko Hawaii pae aina (in english called the "Hawaiian Kingdom") and Hong Kong, spanning the entire Pacific and Pacific Rim and Basin, backed by solid assets. By essentially substituting itself in the position of ko Hawaii pae aina with the Universal Postal Union, and other commerce and trade Treaty - the foreign U.S. could then conduct trade fixing and thereby siphon proceeds to itself coming in from all over the world. The addition-deletion banking theory is an econometric theory, finding variables for inclusion into a credit and debt pyramid scheme and regression economies to exclude or liquidate.

The econometric theory is now employed by the World Bank or IMF today and is based upon this structure in the Pacific exchange, illegally controlled by the foreign private independent corporation known as the "Federal Reserve". The HPSB has been hidden under the substituted title of "circuit courts" in the Territory of Hawaii, Organic Act, §75 since September of 1897. The foreign U.S. simply kicked out the owner of the bank, and started masquerading as the owner using media and isolation tactics to divert the world's attention to a war it began in Cuba a few months later.

As many people now know, the falsely claimed and overplayed "overthrow" was a cover up of an illegal fix of trade on Jan. 17, 1893. The legal requirements to meet criteria of an "overthrow" are non-existent, 1) there was no absolute monarch, 2) the nationals did not commit the act, 3) the nationals did not plan to change their style of governance and 4) there has never been a termination of jurisdiction. All thereafter falls back on the same non-existence, lack of record and evidence in fact that demonstrates an act of an illegal fix of international trade took place.

Throughout the ordeal, the Constitutional Queen Liliuokalani, was never dethroned and apparently to their chagrin, never gave up or gave in.

On August 12, 1894 the Republic of Hawaii, Inc. an unrecognized and illegal occupant supported by the foreign U.S., claimed that all private alii, konohiki owned and government designated lands were theirs despite the existing facts and evidence opposing their claims.

This group claimed that private assets still in the names of the patentees and their heirs, were to be called public lands and open as property to "cede" as they wished. In 1895, while claiming to create a constitution suitable for a republic of the U.S., education for the kanaka was outlawed and all rural schools were closed. Many kanaka records were altered, or simply pulled from the national archives, judiciary, legislature and all national banks were closed.

In 1897, the Republic of Hawaii, Inc. negotiated a debt of 4 million dollars in lawful currency it owed to the nation of ko Hawaii pae aina to be assigned to the foreign U.S. Congress by way of a domestic U.S. Act, called the Joint Resolution. Without Treaty, and without consent or means of ratification by authority of ko Hawaii pae aina, the foreign U.S. congress without recognizing the Republic of Hawaii, Inc., did discuss the absence of lawful basis for a joint resolution upon domestic soil against their U.S. constitution. Although not passed or approved by their senate, the void contract was negotiated and the debt accepted. With access to technology and records not seen before, kanaka are learning that there is no ratification of a legal document purporting to cede anything from ko Hawaii pae aina to the United States that allegedly took place in 1898, alleging there had been another document ratified by the Republic of Hawaii, Inc. in 1897. In addition, no legal or lawful basis for a "cession" can be found in evidence.

The assignment of debt and joint resolution did not attach the constitutional sovereign nation, but only exhibited an unsettled debt owing by the Republic of Hawaii group to the constitutional sovereign nation of ko Hawaii pae aina.

Not only was that debt illegally assigned to the U.S. by the Republic of Hawaii, Inc. owing by theft of lawful currency from the national treasury of ko Hawaii pae aina,..... there was the matter of two outstanding loans (debts) owed to the nation by the U.S. and the U.K. ratified in 1886 and approved by legislative records. The two debts remain unpaid to this day accruing compounded interests at 6%.

"The Territory"

The foreign U.S. congress fabricated a document entitled the Organic Act to create a Territory of Hawaii, Inc. under military rule, in the year 1900. In section 75 of that Act, it states without alteration to this day, the Hawaiian Postal Savings Bank shall be substituted as the circuit courts open bonded probates of the Dead, continued to be traded under another name. The same self appointed president Sanford Dole stayed where he was, and chained to a chair next to him on public events was the constitutional Queen of the legitimate nation.

The original Post Master General was substituted by a new Territorial officer, he was in charge of 6% Hawaiian Treasury Bonds issued against the assets in the Hawaiian Postal Savings Bank (HPSB), to be held in trust for the kanaka, but now in the Territory the HPSB was operating as the "circuit courts" according to their "act" of 1900.

By theft in receivership, the U.S. military controlled a system like nothing they had, especially since the gold backed Polynesian Post Office (predecessor of the HPSB) was the center of Commercial goods and Money Orders in the Pacific. The original financial system remains intact with all rights to kanaka as well, but the illegal control of it at least outwardly became manipulated by the substituted occupants. It seems the money current had shifted out away from the kanaka, and the nation and made its way to another receiver.

Also stated without alteration in the Organic Act, sections 91/103 is that all of the assets (6% treasury bonds) in the Hawaiian Treasury are to be held by the foreign Territory of Hawaii, Inc. under military control.

The private Treasury received shares of profits from the leases, commerce and cooperatives located on Crown and alii properties, but is not mentioned. The foreign Secretary of the U.S. Treasury created a "stated" account for transactions between the foreign nations that it did not have the authority to do. To set all heir patentees (kanaka) apart, it is stated without alteration in section 4 of the Organic Act, that all citizens of the Republic of Hawaii would be considered as citizens of the Territory along with any U.S. citizen residing within ko Hawaii pae aina on August 12, 1894, thereby excluding all kanaka. It is noteworthy here to retain the fact that the Republic of Hawaii constitution adopted by the State of Hawaii, Inc. provides that any certified citizen born therein is to receive a Certificate of live birth, and is to be naturalized.....also unaltered to date. At the time, the authors of the unrecognized and illegitimate "Republic of Hawaii" constitution framed it in expectation of a legal cession, which never happened. One would be correct in questioning the legitimacy of status of non kanaka and non nationals born within the nation. Under general international law aliens do not have the right to be naturalized, each state being free to determine eligibility to naturalization.

Nationality changes with the legal transfer of one nation to another however without any documentation of transfers of jurisdiction, change of nationality was not effected.

On April 6, 1939 the U.S. for the Territory and the U.K. made an agreement to fabricate a new taxation district for Hawaii in anticipation of special maritime jurisdiction under U.S. belligerent occupancy. This new "district" was called an administrative district. The actual government was in exile and barely surviving under the barrage of foreign U.S. military occupation. What was happening is now what we know as Corporate Complicity in International Crimes on human rights abuse, and the foreign U.S. encouraged it more and more. The reader is reminded here, that there is no Treaty of Comity or of Taxation to create foreign tax obligations owed by ko Hawaii pae aina, and in fact exports from the nations ports to the U.S. are duty free by Treaty.

He uli na ka hee puloa,

it is ink from the long-headed octopus

(said of a deceitful person who conceals wrongdoings)

From 1934 to 1942, local plantation corporations illegally surveyed the properties already surveyed and patented under ko Hawaii pae aina in 1848, and the military controlled Territory of Hawaii group adopted the Torrens land system to overlay original survey patent maps. The plantations and the foreign military worked together to create more business interests, whose combined effects served to internally displace kanaka from their patented resources and their occupied revenue. Many kanaka at the time two or three generations sicker, weaker and in dire poverty were misled to sign up for taxation on their properties while attending plantation "picnics". The royal patent owners gave their information unknowingly, resulting in illegal taxation by a foreign belligerent occupant whose corporate administrative rulings not only were unconstitutional, but displaced them further from their ancestors.

Nations struggled to raise itself from two world wars, and carved out boundaries and prize territories were being divided among the victors. Two international cases arising from the Hague Convention, related intolerance of belligerent occupancy and granted affirmation of reentry rules of occupied nations such as in Kotra and others v. Czechoslovakia (1934) and in Re: Chevreau (1931). In the center of those conflicts were indigenous and aboriginal people, whose identities and territories were blurred with the malaise of war.

In 1945, the United Nations initiated the process for decolonization of territories of States, pursuant to section 73(e) of the UN Charter, GAR 66(1), and in 1946 the foreign U.S. Secretary General transmitted false information to the UN claiming that Hawaii was a U.S. "colony". In direct and clear opposition to that falsehood ko Hawaii pae aina was established as a Constitutional Sovereign Nation with over 46 treaties worldwide, and completely opposite of a "colony" by legal definition, and without satisfying elements of being a "colony". By then, an illegal fix of trade was discernable from a fabricated "overthrow", and a claimed annexation without ratification was obvious, and a claimed cession without proven existence of a cession document particularly of one constitutional nation into another one – was more than clearly wrong. The kanaka knew it, but did the world know it too? The only way for the Territory to preserve its occupancy on a broken chain of fraud, was to keep trading and they sure did.

So in the year of the United States third bankruptcy and on Nov. 7, 1950 the militarily controlled and overinundated kanaka watched as foreign alien residents of the Territory of Hawaii group proposed a statehood "constitution". In 1958, the foreign U.S. Post Master General (PMG) was given an office directly within the Department of Defense and in anticipation of the "statehood" was in place to directly transfer 6% Hawaiian Treasury Bonds issued on assets of the Dead located and collected in the circuit courts, to the Secretary of the U.S. Treasury via the "stated" account created in 1900. It is interesting that one year ahead of a "vote" claimed to be in compliance with the UN decolonization standards, the U.S. civilian office (PMG) wherein assets were being withheld from kanaka..... becomes a military office.

The PMG remained in office as if in the Territory (military) in control of trust bonds specifically for kanaka.

On March 18, 1959 less than 17% of kanaka inhabited the motherland they called home, and they watched excluded while a voter fraud took place on June 27, 1959. The majority of the persons who voted for "statehood" were foreign military troops. All of 83% unqualified voters who were foreign resident aliens within the nation of ko Hawaii pae aina took part in one of the biggest criminal acts against human rights in history, and most of them had no idea what they had done. At least four generations of kanaka had been born since 1893, yet there were only 17% of voter age adults alive at the time in the populace.

To cover up the two illegal attempts at voting on "statehood" and certainly to conceal the source of its newfound wealth, the foreign U.S. president Dwight Eisenhower declared by Proclamation, that the State of Hawaii, Inc. was admitted into the union of the United States on August 21, 1959. He certainly did not confirm a free vote, and without prior congressional ratification and authority, US presidential proclamations are meaningless in law. On May 17, 1966 the "vote" was approved by the US congress and on May 16, 1967 the foreign U.S. congress passed the U.S. domestic proclamation made without prior congressional authority required by law. In anticipation of legal ramifications due to the violations of equal political participation, the foreign U.S. congress hurriedly passed an after-the-fact "voter rights Amendment" to their constitution in 1965.

To this day, the State of Hawaii, Inc. celebrates a foreign "Proclamation" under the guise of "statehood" on August 21st of each year, declared a holiday by the foreign US president Ronald Reagan in the year 1984. Thereby, a foreign proclamation and not by free qualified votes, did the myth of "statehood" enter the mainstream vocabulary of all "Americans" and it was immediately printed in schoolbooks to indoctrinate the minds of little kanaka children.

Rhetorical movies like Bali Hai and Donovans Reef, depicted kanaka as ignorant, child like and paganly savage. Hollywood screenwriters carefully wrote away facts, such as ko Hawaii pae aina was the most literate nation by the 1880's, invented oceanic marine and aquaculture or that the foreign US intentionally kept them in slavery and economic bondage.

Diabetes, cancer and other foreign induced diseases ravaged the uneducated, poverty stricken kanaka, while foreign resident aliens were making millions of dollars in sunny real estate and inflated equity - based on the assets of their host nations dead.

Once again, the World is Deceived

On September 17, 1959 the Permanent Representative of the U.S. to the U.N. lied, his transmittal stated that the people of Hawaii had achieved self governance. Transmission over. Conveniently, in the year 1960 the ethnicity of "Hawaiian" or "Pacific Islander" was added to the foreign government census records. Since then, there has been a renewal of culture, a 1987 win for the right to kanaka education and a 1993 Apology from the foreign U.S. president William Clinton and many, many foreign attempts to continue taking from the kanaka. The intriguing facts are that the inquiry bears no statute of limitations, and such a transmission to the United Nations did not dispose of the issue.

The occupant administration's duties it was once told to this author, was to "preserve it's office" and by that it was meant to manipulate the masquerade as long as possible and by any means. As many as 49 sovereignty groups have formed, and other forms evolved, however the spirit of aloha continues to thrive with new technologies to apply and share in resolve. The world may think its' over, but if you ask one kanaka be ready to take a lesson in history.

Most foreign US social engineering against sovereignty and independence of the kanaka are directed from the State of Hawaii, Inc. operating on levels of fear mongering.

The Independence supporters and Sovereignty activists are criminalized by the local BAR and other agencies whose office exists upon the stolen assets of the kanaka via the illegal State. They use local enforcement to harass and stigmatize sovereigntists and supporters.

The next level is to use outside influence which up the stakes such as foreign FBI, Senators and broadcast Media Smear Campaigns. The most feared level is the militaristic stripping of rights and physical violence using all levels of enforcement resulting in forced disappearances, for example of Kimo Mitchell and George Helm who “went missing” after spearheading a civil rights renaissance which resulted in stopping the US bombing practices on the islands. The largest recipient of derivatives and proceeds from the probate assets being held illegally from the kanaka, is the foreign U.S. Dept. of Defense that manipulates communications and the mail, preferring the outside world to deal only with its subcorporate agent the State of Hawaii, Inc., until they find out about the truth.

Corporate, business and transnational companies whose conduct is a direct cause of human rights abuses, or whose complicity with human rights abuses, thereby benefiting from them are being criminally prosecuted more and more. As the world’s eyes open to the systemic and genocidal actions of the US against the kanaka, and it finds not only humanitarian reason to prevent it, it finds financial reason as well.

The Complicity of it all....

The Genocide Convention, 1948 called the Convention on the Prevention and Punishment of the Crime of Genocide (78 UNTS 277) adopted by the General assembly (GA) in 1948, in force by 1951 was signed by the US in 1966 and ratified in 1988. The Convention declares genocide a crime under International Law, irrespective of whether it occurred in peace or war, international or internal conflict. (1951 ICJ Rep. 15), the International Court of Justice confirmed principles of the convention are binding upon the States, even without conventional obligation, re affirmed in Belgium v. Spain (1970 ICJ Rep. 3). Genocide is defined by acts committed with the intent to destroy, in whole or part, a national, ethnic, racial or religious group; killing members of the group; causing serious bodily or mental harm to members of the group; deliberately inflicting on the group conditions of life calculated to bring about its physical destruction in whole or part; imposing measures intended to prevent births within the group; and forcibly transferring children of the group to another group.

The targeted group of people known as the kanaka Maoli meet such criteria as victims of genocide caused by the intentional conduct of the foreign U.S. and their agent sub corporate, State of Hawaii, Inc.

Some people commenting on the subject have argued that "Hawaii" (ko Hawaii pae aina) does not have standing under this Convention, however the US decolonization issue is still pending with the Charter obligations applying thereon from the time the US ratified the Genocide Convention. The U.S. is also legally bound by The Universal Declaration of Human Rights, article 17 proclaims everybody's right to own property and the customary international laws on self determination of peoples articulated in the human rights Covenant of 1966 on civil and political rights, and on economic, social, and cultural rights.

The foreign U.S. congress "approved" the resident alien vote of June 27, 1959 that took place in the occupied nation, without the choice of independence or the ethnicity of its people on the ballot on May 17, 1966.

By its own admittance the U.S. recognizes that it's legal obligations to "de-colonize" Hawaii are not satisfied, thereby making the still occupied territory of ko Hawaii pae aina, an un ended issue on that international agenda.

With the advent of the Indigenous movement of 1988, the world changed again and the Dead continued to be traded like marketable items at a grocery store. The kanaka maoli had no connection to this new and intriguing movement directed by the World Bank, or so it was thought.

The trade of probate assets from the decedents hands by foreign corporations under illegal and concealed fraud, despite the waiting hands of it's heirs, clearly demonstrate the genocidal intentions by the U.S. against the kanaka maoli. The U.S. regularly causes and conducts either directly or through its subcorporate State of Hawaii, Inc. trading company, racial economics, induced poverty and debt slavery calculated to result in mortal injury to the kanaka maoli, especially when compounded with intentional food source depletion, uncontrolled genetic modification experimentation with intentional exposure to the kanaka maoli and by denying generations of the kanaka maoli of their inherent and human rights to civil and political process.

It seems to the observer, that the pending de-colonization issue becomes ever more galvanized and material, as the U.S. continues to ratify and legally bind itself to UN and international Conventions respecting human rights it is obligated to uphold.

According to unofficial polls and grassroots surveying, the majority of the kanaka maoli and a growing number of resident aliens want Independence. Not a form of self governance within the framework of the occupant state, U.S., but total re-entry into and in control of its own civil right and national revenues. The people's expression is a very near reality that is in the making for ko Hawaii pae aina particularly on the financial course, taking into account it is a constitutional nation and principal owner of the nations assets, a creditor nation to others.

Many resident aliens and unknowing purchasers of interests sold to them by the foreign State of Hawaii, Inc. and or its agents, have begun to participate in the correction process by dealing directly with the Nation preferring to conduct an honest economic protocol and exchange.

According to Texaco Overseas Petroleum Co. & California Asiatic Oil Co., decided by a sole arbitrator in 1977 (17 ILM 1 (1978)), a state (nation) is liable for breaching international contracts, which is what the U.S. and U.K. (the debtor-state) did with ko Hawaii pae aina, by nationalizing its banking system and dealing with the delivery of falsified goods to other states, committing massive international trade and security fraud. It appears there are international remedies for the kanaka and nationals. In 1992, Nauru v. Australia (1992 ICJ Rep. 240) Nauru Phosphate Mining Corp., the administrative authority established by virtue of a trusteeship, did not constitute a separate legal entity (the Government of Australia) and in international law cannot be recognized nor have the powers as such. The issue arose when the corporation started making up "laws" for the people there, substituting itself as if the real government.

By this example, it could be said that foreign The State of Hawaii, Inc. a non juridical foreign administrative district, asserting administrative rule nor that of the U.S. via that administration, by virtue of a claimed "trust", - does not stand in the way of the kanaka nation, the heirs, or of ko Hawaii pae aina in contracting internationally or nationally. The remedy may be in this example of an administrative entity not being able to stand on equal footing with ko Hawaii pae aina, a true sovereign constitutional nation which is in fact a separate legal entity.

On the other hand, the nation of ko Hawaii pae aina is faced with an ongoing ever changing foreign U.S. bill called the "Akaka bill" which proposes an alternate existence of a sub-tribal status touted to the kanaka as "federal recognition", however the devilish details include waiving title, rights and interests to royally patented lands and waters forever under a twenty year time line for a non disclosed process to take place. Knowing the information in this brief report on the U.S. atrocious practice of Trading in the Dead, makes one wonder what effect would this foreign bill have if any at all, and can it based on anything substantial?

Without a legitimate mechanism, a Treaty by authorized powers that would ratify agreement, we are forced to take a better look. We must take notice of the fact that there is an absolute absence of the basic underlying chain of ratification that would make us all stand up and say, ok I've had enough. But wait, what standing then does a Nation have if there is no transfer of jurisdiction from the Nation of ko Hawaii pae aina to the self –proclaimed, unrecognized provisional "government" group that orchestrated the illegal fix of trade, and without a transfer of jurisdiction to the republic of Hawaii group, and then without a transfer of jurisdiction to the U.S., and then without a transfer of jurisdiction to the territory of Hawaii group, and then without a transfer of jurisdiction to the State of Hawaii, Inc., ? All it takes is a little encouragement, a little political nod of approval and little commitment to the truth, and we have lift off of a very valuable and resource full Nation creditor to the world wide family.

The kanaka are learning about the wrongs done to them, and to us and to the world by their occupiers, and solutions without loss of dignity are being discussed.

Since exposing the absence of the transfers of jurisdiction and informing international investors of their liabilities in dealing with the illegal State of Hawaii, Inc., there has been a global economic response and numerous inquiries.

The kanaka anticipate that the occupiers will try to preserve their office precariously balanced upon the "open graves" of the ancestor's estates, what will happen when the graves are finally closed?

The tide is turning for the kanaka, with the vesting up of private registered title by patented automatic descent and awakening others to the truth about what we saw as sleepy islands lost in the sea.

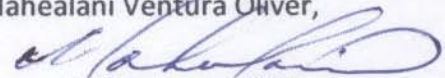

The economic doorways and passages into the hale iwi (house of bones) now are guarded more and more, and illegal access is being denied to the State of Hawaii, Inc. by the Royal Patent Allodial owners and principals of those estates lawfully identifying their interests.

E ike aku a ike mai

(recognize each other)

The kanaka are determined to re enter their international status once enjoyed without illegal occupation of revenue and civil rights. With full recognition and support given by other nations, and ourselves..... this will do doubt be achieved once again.
